AREAS OF EXPERTISE

Clinical Negligence, Industrial Disease, Military Claims, Abuse, Personal Injury, Credit Hire

Megan has a busy court and paperwork practice with chambers. She specialises in industrial disease (resulting from asbestos and noise exposure), clinical negligence and more general personal injury claims.

Megan conducts both remote and in person hearings on a regular basis and has a largely paperless practice.

Her court diary largely consists of small claim and fast track matters, stage 3 hearings and interim applications. She is most frequently instructed in claims involving credit hire, personal injury and RTAs.

Megan's paper practice sees her regularly drafting pleadings and advices. She has most recently been instructed in matters involving noise induced hearing loss, asbestos related lung cancer, asbestosis and delayed medical treatment. She also regularly advises on quantum in a variety of factual settings. She is happy to consider instructions on a CFA basis where appropriate.

Megan has been praised by instructing solicitors for her communicative and thorough approach to case preparation.

Megan joined chambers upon successful completion of her pupillage in October 2020. During pupillage she gained particular experience in asbestos claims (both benign and malignant asbestos diseases), clinical negligence and general personal injury work and developed an interest in cases involving sexual abuse.

Prior to pupillage Megan worked at two London law firms as a paralegal, firstly focusing on domestic abuse (giving rise to her interest and understanding of the sensitive issues that arise in sexual abuse cases), and secondly in a clinical negligence department. She therefore has a clear understanding of claim management and the need to work closely with solicitors to achieve the best results in individual cases.

Megan also regularly contributes to chambers' various blogs. Her clinical negligence articles have been republished in AvMA's newsletters and on LexisPSL.
