Employment & Discrimination

Simon has wide-ranging experience in employment law and regularly appears in the ET as well as having EAT and High Court experience. He appears throughout the tribunals of England and Wales as well as in Scotland. He represents both Claimants and Respondents and regularly represents Local Authorities and Police Authorities, as well as commercial employers. Simon also represents Union-backed Claimants and private individuals from worker to director level. He is experienced in all of the prohibited grounds of discrimination case, redundancy, wage claims, unfair dismissal, whistleblowing claims, TUPE and bonus cases.

Simon is also experienced in drafting and representation in fitness to practice proceedings involving nurses before the Nursing and Midwifery Council, including consideration of appeals and reviews as well as advice and representation at Police Misconduct Hearings.

Simon has recently successfully represented a Claimant and achieved a high six figure award in a Discrimination claim at ET (and EAT); achieved a six figure award in a complex PHI claim (and with a likely reportable anticipated EAT awaited); advised on difficult issues involving the potential transfer of dozens of local authority staff, and a complex transfer of local authority/police/private charity service provision and has recently represented a high-profile Professor in an internal University appeal, a re-structuring company in dispute with one of its directors, and various cases involving significant sexual and other discriminatory allegations in the workplace.

Simon is experienced in and provides training on a wide range of employment law matters.

Simon has featured in the Legal 500 as a recommended employment practitioner and has acted as legal panel advisor as well as legal representative at professional disciplinary/appeal hearings.
